The Call of the Waterfall (Interpretive Walk)

Allow yourself to be drawn toward North America's tallest waterfall. Be "blown away" as you stand at the base of Lower Yosemite Fall. As we go, we'll discuss where the water comes from, where it goes and who uses it and why it is endangered. This 3 mile walk will be on flat ground at a moderate pace with periodic stops. We will travel through the forest to the Lower Yosemite Fall Overlook.

Vernal Falls Bridge (Guided Hike)

Two mile out and back to beautiful vista point of Vernal Falls. From here you can make the decision about whether to continue to the top of the falls. Climbs up about 500 feet in elevation. Difficulty: moderate.

Vernal Falls Mist-Muir Loop (Guided Hike)

1.5 miles to the top of Vernal Falls. Two different trails provide access. The mist trail is a steep, stair-cased trail that will get you wet as you climb alongside the waterfall. You would return on the John Muir Trail. Difficulty: strenuous.

Yosemite Falls (Guided Hike)

Up and down 6.8 miles (round trip) to the top of upper Yosemite Fall. A steep, strenuous climb that switchbacks up 2,630 feet to the beautiful overlook. Difficulty: very strenuous.
